Officials oppose Waveland location

Harbor House teenagers may soon be homeless

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Some eight teenage girls housed at the State Welfare Department's Harbor House in Bay St. Louis may not have a place to live by the end of this month. The Waveland Board of Aldermen

Tuesday night voted to oppose location of the homeless girls' facility at a two-story Sidney Street residence owned by Sidney Woods in that city. Residents in the vicinity of the proposed home location appeared at a

Tuesday night board meeting to voice objections and present a petition with 91 names of residents opposing the facility. Harbor House is presently located in the old Gex home at the corner of Gex and Court Streets—across the street from the County Jail.

Wallace Bradley, Hancock County Welfare Department director, Wednesday said the state's lease agreement for the Gex home with McDonald Realty expires at the end of this month.

"They don't want to re-lease with us because McDonald's plans to renovate the historical building to rent as an office building," he reported.

Bradley also noted the girls need housing away from the jail building for their own protection in view of a recent rash of escapes.

The welfare department director said he doesn't understand how residents could object to the Waveland location since the property is zoned for commercial use.

He reported the home is the only state-operated girls facility in the state. Bradley said the State Capitol Commission must approve any welfare department action regarding the girls' home.

The commission has already approved the Sidney Street move and doesn't meet again until June, Bradley reported.

"There are not many places you can rent in this county which are large enough to house these girls. We've got three weeks to find another place and it's going to be just about impossible to find another location. I've been looking for a new location since December," Bradley stated.

The residents attending the City Hall meeting said sewerage and electrical service and parking are inadequate at the Sidney Street residence.

They also felt the building has inadequate fireproofing and its kitchen and the building overall is too small.

"It's a fire trap," a man stated.

A woman said, "Why put this in Waveland. Why don't they put it out in the county somewhere. Just think of the kind of people that will be in our neighborhood."

"We're all too old for what's going on there (Harbor House)," she added.

The residents also said the property was zoned residential, but no city officials would confirm the claim one way or another.

A woman said, "We are in a quiet neighborhood. How can I leave a child in my yard if those girls are there."

Another woman reported, "She (a welfare department official) told me I would have to lock my house if those girls move there."

Mayor John Longo expressed his support of the residents' objections.

"If it's not suitable for the neighborhood and there's not enough parking, the home should not be there. The funeral home proposed for that building was turned down for the same reasons," he explained.

Bradley said the building needs repair, but Woods has promised to complete all improvements before the building is utilized.

In other business at the 7:30 p.m. regular meeting, the board:

—Approved a request by Neville (Jake) Jacob requesting the city approve sale of the Colosseum Corp.'s Hancock Community Cable System franchise to the Essex Corp. of Greenwich, Conn. The sale will be effective in June. Jacob said the new owners would maintain existing cable service and possibly expand to other areas of the county.

—Accepted a recommendation by Fire Chief Don McIntyre to purchase 20 lengths of 15-foot hose from Sanford Fire Apparatus Corp. of Syracuse, N.Y. costing $3,726;

—Approved paying some $222 to Meg McIntosh of 1104 Dicks St. for damages to her home and salary she lost resulting from cleanup of her residence when the city sewerage system backed up into her home during recent heavy rains;

—Authorized a $25 donation to the Distributive Education Class at Bay Senior High School in Bay St. Louis to help support students participating in national Vocational and Industrial Club of America competition in Chicago, Ill.;

—Authorized bid advertisements seeking proposals for cleaning a lot on Jeff Davis Avenue owned by Melvin Laurent; —Heard a report from Longo that he received a letter from Mayor Gerald Blessey of Biloxi requesting any of Waveland's excess Urban Systems state funds used for road repairs. Longo said the city could not relinquish any of the funds, but he would request Biloxi give Waveland any excess Urban Systems funds.

—Authorized advertising for bids seeking a used garbage truck. Longo said Browning Ferris Industries of Biloxi is selling a relatively new garbage truck previously owned by Pascagoula. He noted the truck valued at about $45,000 is larger than other Waveland garbage trucks and could probably be purchased for about $13,000.

OBJECTING TO GIRLS HOME—Several Waveland residents at a Tuesday night Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting object to location of the Harbor House Girls' Home at a Sidney Street residence. The residents also presented a petition signed by 91 people objecting to the home locating in the neighborhood. Firefighter hurt, residence damaged in Waveland blaze

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Firefighters Monday extinguished a two-alarm blaze in Waveland which heavily damaged a recently constructed den at a residence and sent one firefighter suffering from smoke inhalation to Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis.

Assistant Chief Gerald (Rusty) Price III of the Waveland Fire Department Tuesday reported the 523 Sears Ave. residence of Lois A. Wallace was damaged in the fire.

"We received a report of the fire at 10:20 a.m. from Wallace. We were at the scene within three minutes and found the entire rear portion of the home engulfed in flames," Price explained.

The intense fire was brought under control within 15-20 minutes, the assistant chief noted.

Assisting one Waveland pumper was a Bay St. Louis Fire Department unit. Price said Waveland Firefighter Richard Trudell was ventilating the house on the roof when he was overcome by smoke.

"Trudell was treated at the hospital for smoke inhalation and released that day," he noted.

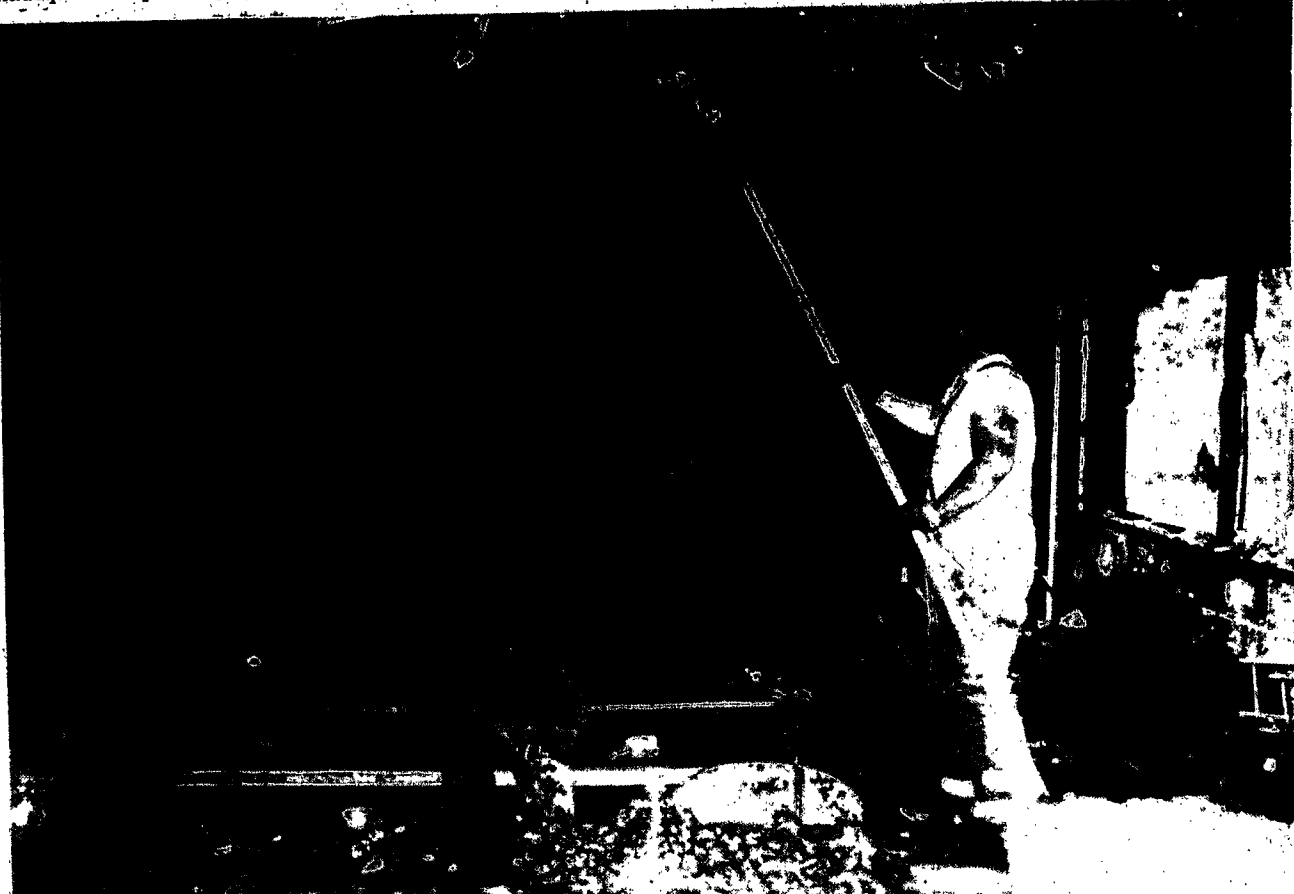

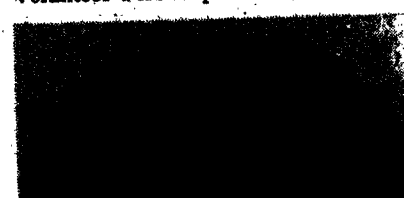

Firefighters stayed at the fire scene for about two hours to ventilate smoke from the home and extinguish hot spots which could have re-ignited the structure, Price said.

The assistant chief reported although the addition was extensively damaged, the original portion of the home was saved except for smoke and water damage.

Cause of the fire is being investigated, but Price speculated cause of the fire would be listed as accidental.

Responding to the fire scene were Firefighters Arthur Farve of the Bay department; Bill Field Jr., Billy Field III, Jimmy Varnell, David Garcia and John Holderman, Price, and Fire Marshal Lee Ferrell of the Waveland department; and Firefighter Rusty Blappert of the Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Department.

Culprits crack Jr. Food safe

By ELLIS CUEVAS
A Sunday night safe cracking at Jr. Food Store on Main Street at St. Francis in Bay St. Louis is under investigation by city police and Hancock County Sheriff's Office.

Police Chief Douglas Williams said his office received a call at 5:18 a.m. Monday morning reporting a burglary. "Patrolmen Barbara Ellspermann and Michael Hobby found the safe open with a burglar(s) having apparently entered through the front door."

An undetermined amount of cash was removed from the safe and a gallon jug with collections for the Cancer Fund was reportedly missing, Williams added.

Det. Sgt. Hancock County Investigator who is assisting Bay Police, reports several suspects are being checked in the burglary.

Williams and Sgt. say they feel it may have been some type of inside job.

In other police activities, two warrants have been issued on the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) for two persons suspected of being involved in breaking into a mobile home early Sunday in Bay St. Louis.

Williams said his office received a call from a Mrs. LaFontaine in the Wheel-Inn Mobile Home Park at 3:40 a.m. saying she awoke to find a person standing in the kitchen and when she screamed at least two people fled.

"An abandoned vehicle has led to the issuance of the warrants, and we also found other evidence at the scene," Williams added.

Sgt. is assisting Bay St. Louis police in the investigation, which includes Bay Officers Ellspermann and Hobby.

Investigations are also being conducted in the theft of several items from a Harbor Square merchant over the weekend and some property taken from the back of the Bay and an automobile parked near that beach front business.

Police summoned the fire department when they received a call Sunday morning reporting a vehicle on fire on Booker Street.

Williams reported, "Mr. and Mrs. [names] were going down Booker Street when they saw the vehicle owned by Mrs. [name] [name] on fire. They called police at 7:15 a.m. Williams said the fire was very busy Saturday night."

Council ok's cable transfer

By BRENT MACEY

The Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday agreed to transfer their contract with Hancock Community Cable Inc. to Essex 1982-1 Operating Partnership of Greenwich, Conn. with hopes the new company will be able to supply cable television service to more homes in this area.

Neville Jacob, manager of Hancock Cable, told the council that Hancock Community Cable wanted "to get out of the cable business."

"Perhaps it's the best thing that we turn this over to them (Essex) so that they can take over where we left off," Jacob said.

Jacob noted the Hancock Cable had not reached all customers in Bay St. Louis.

He attributed lack of service in some areas to economic unfeasibility.

Terrell H. Adams, president of Hancock Cable, informed the council that his company "has built as much as it probably could."

He claimed the new company, which has already agreed to the terms of the franchise contract with the city, was better equipped to deal with technological problems with the cable.

The company also has more money to expand the system, he said.

Adams said Essex is very interested in expanding service to more areas of this county. The company would not have been interested in purchasing Hancock Community Cable if it could not expand the system further, he said.

The purchase price paid for Hancock Cable could not be estimated by Jacob or Adams.

Adams said the cable system purchase was part of $30 million purchase which included 40 different cable companies operating in seven different states.

Adams or Jacob, also could not estimate what percent of Bay St. Louis Hancock Cable has connected with television service.

Councilman Sheldon Seuzeneau expressed a desire to meet Essex officials before the council agreed to the transfer.

However, City Attorney Joseph Gex noted the council had little choice but to accept the transfer since the city's contract with Hancock Cable allowed transfer of ownership.

City, state studying traffic flow problems

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A study is underway to help traffic flow in five areas of Bay St. Louis, according to Police Chief Douglas Williams.

A recent meeting between Williams, Bob Mosley, State Highway Department traffic engineer; Brenda Anderson, assistant chief of the Bay St. Louis Auxiliary Police; and Danny Johnson, city superintendent of streets, was held to discuss the matter.

The five areas of study are: the six-way intersection of US-90 and Ulman Avenue; Main and US-90; Corsswalk at Dunbar and US-90; DeMontluzin Avenue and US-90; and Washington and US-90.

"The reason for our meeting is to secure ways of making traffic flow easier in the five areas," Williams stated.

One of the requests the city is making from the state is a re-survey of traffic flow at Washington and US-90 to determine if there is a need for a traffic signal.

Williams said, "We are trying to eliminate traffic flow problems throughout the city and are happy to have assistance from Mr. Mosley of the State Highway Department and also the Bay St. Louis Street Department.

Bay PD updating emergency files

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay St. Louis Police Department is sending inquiries to area merchants seeking owner's name and telephone number in order to revise the department's emergency notification files, according to Chief Douglas Williams.

The information is to be used only "to enable police to know whom to contact in case of an emergency situation. All information will be held in strict confidence," Williams emphasized.

The inquiries which will be mailed this weekend request the owner's name, address, telephone number, home address and telephone number, as well as additional persons to contact during an emergency.

A letter of instructions states in part, "We are asking that you fill out the enclosed form with the necessary emergency information. When the form has been completed, contact the Police Department at 457-9221, and we will have an officer pick it up."

Williams added, "This information is necessary for our emergency files and will be a big help to the police as well as the Bay St. Louis Fire Department. We also urge all business persons to give us a call whenever there is a change in persons to notify.

Bits 'n pieces

Friday and Saturday will be a lucky day for persons looking for bargains in used furniture, appliances, utensils, clothing and all types of items.

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society's Rummage Sale will be held at the Civic Center on Coleman Avenue from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Many of you know the many wonderful projects the Humane Society is involved in such as the spay-neuter programs.

This helps cut the population of dogs and cats and helps persons wanting to keep pets with having them spayed or neutered.

We hope you will drop in at the Rummage Sale and say hello to all the folks working.

See you at the sale.

Baseball fever has again struck in our communities.

It was very good to see so many young boys and girls at the official opening of the Harrison-Hancock Little League last Saturday in the Kiln.

A lot of players are needed to field 23 teams, so that means that many of our children have something very worthwhile to do in the coming weeks.

Waveland had its Little League opening several weeks ago and the Bay St. Louis Little League is scheduled for a May 15 opening.

When you add the total of all players in all those leagues, there are many hundreds of young people playing baseball, tee-ball and softball.

All we can say is, thanks to the many league officials, coaches and managers who give their time to our young people.

Just think, we have six high school tennis individual champs from our area schools, in addition to Bay High taking the state team championship.

Bay Senior High's Mike Barnes and Rickey Ladner are the Single A doubles champs; Linne Cabell and Ann Moran of Our Lady's Academy are the Double B girls doubles champs; and Coast Episcopal's Doug Underwood and Leslie McNair are the mixed doubles Class B champs.

These fine young people should all be commended on their winning the state championships in the respective divisions.

We are proud of them, and are sure their respective schools feel the same way.

COUNTY COMPUTER INSTALLED—Demonstrating the capabilities of the Hancock County chancery clerk's office recently-installed computer system is County Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necaise, standing, of Bay St. Louis and Assistant Bookkeeper E.J. Toomey of Waveland. Necaise emphasizes the $28,000 system was purchased with interest money generated by an improved county investment program. He notes the system will streamline the county's bookkeeping procedures with computer programs handling payroll, bill payments, inventories, investments, W-2 forms and monthly and yearly reports. He adds that 15 additional terminals can be added to the system to aid other county offices at the Courthouse. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

May will be Older Americans Month, and, according to the Mississippi Council on Aging (MCOA), an ideal time to initiate activities for the benefit of the state's senior citizens.

The 10 area agencies on aging across the state are planning a wide range of programs to observe this month dedicated to "one of Mississippi's most valuable resources," said Jay C. Moon, MCOA director.

Typical of these activities are Mother's Day luncheons, "old fashioned" fashion shows, senior citizen appreciation days, picnics and health fairs.

"This will be the 20th year that Older Americans Month is celebrated throughout the U.S.," Moon said. "It is traditionally a time to honor older Americans for their achievements, to promote better opportunities for all older Americans and to strengthen efforts to serve the frail and needy elderly."

Moon called upon all Mississippians to consider initiating activities for the state's senior citizens. "The activities could range from 'adopting' a grandparent to visits and telephone calls to all older Mississippians in your area," he said.

The thrust of Mississippi's observance is volunteerism. "Funding cuts have imposed severe restrictions upon governmental agencies. The need for volunteers has never been greater," Moon noted. "Few activities can be as rewarding as helping older Mississippians to enjoy their share of the good life our state has to offer."

The MCOA director also urged more involvement for older Mississippians. "The Mississippi Council on Aging believes that sufficient demands are not being made upon older people. In many cases, senior citizens don't want idleness and freedom. Instead, they want an opportunity to do something with their lives that will make them significant," Moon said.

"Their many years of experience make them well qualified to advise us on a great variety of subjects, and older Mississippians can contribute their experience to most community activities. The influence they can have upon our youth alone is tremendous."

"Volunteer work is the most prevalent and perhaps most popular outside-the-home activity of Americans 65 and over," Moon said. "According to the Administration on Aging of the Department of Health and Human Services, about 17 million people age 65 and over do volunteer work of one sort or another. This represents a total of 30 million hours of service. Several million more would like to have work and volunteer opportunities.

"The vast majority of older people are ready to serve, judging from the findings of various polls," he said. "For example, about 80 percent of all older people subscribed to the statement that 'voluntary service is essential to meet the communities' needs and that everyone should do his share.'"

Moon noted that "longer life has become a visible fact, dramatized daily in the homes and streets of America by 35 million persons aged 60 and over. Communities, in the past, tended to overlook older people while serving children and youth with overwhelming shares of community services, schooling and recreational opportunities. There used to be little left for other age groups."

"Now, there is a growing realization that older people, too, need educational opportunities to keep abreast in a rapidly evolving society. Older people need opportunities for every kind of involvement and participation in civic life."

"They need," he added, "opportunities to be productive in society instead of becoming liabilities."

Washington report

OUR 'FRONT PORCH' NEIGHBORS

For years, I have wondered why the United States under various administrations held a short-sighted view when it came to foreign policy.

We looked to Europe, the Middle East, Southeast Asia and Africa as our only major foreign policy areas, and ignored those two dozen small developing nations in Central America with which we have much in common. As a result, the U.S. came to be mistrusted by countries in the Caribbean Basin.

The countries now are being affected seriously by the higher costs of imported oil and declining prices for their major exports, such as sugar, coffee and banana. Economic chaos has exposed deeprooted structural problems, caused serious inflation, high unemployment and declining growth.

That's why the Caribbean Basin initiative announced last week by President Reagan is so bold and imaginative. As he told the Organization of American States, it's a positive approach to help our neighbors help themselves through economic assistance, technical aid and security assistance.

In short, it's good to see our neighbors on the "front porch" instead of somewhere in the "back yard."

I attended a briefing on the President's initiative before it was formally announced, and the reasons for it are impressive. For example, the region is the fourth largest market for U.S. goods such as transportation equipment, farm and industrial machinery, chemicals and manufactured goods.

Perhaps as much as one-half of our imported oil moves through the Panama Canal. The Caribbean region is the second largest source of illegal immigrants. If the U.S. can help improve conditions in the Caribbean Basin countries, we might also solve some of our own problems.

Now, what is it that the U.S. is proposing to do? The program consists of appropriate measures in the fields of trade, investment and financial assistance. The centerpiece of the program is the offer of one-way free trade: elimination of duties on all imports except textiles and apparel and up to a point on sugar.

The President will also seek congressional approval to grant U.S. investors in the Caribbean Basin a significant tax incentive to encourage investment. Also requested will be a $350 million appropriation to provide emergency assistance to several key countries in particularly critical situations.

It is important to remember that this initiative was made after extensive consultations with the countries involved and it is not just another of those "made in America" quick fixes. The ratio of economic to security assistance will be 5 to 1, meaning that we are serious in providing economic help over the long term.

To some, the borders of the Caribbean Basin countries may be partitions to ensure separation. With this new initiative, President Reagan also sees the borders as meeting points of common interests.

SOME COMMITTEES SET POOR EXAMPLE

With painful economic realities facing the American people and the public demanding departure from "business as usual," you'd think congressional committees would be among the first to get the message.

Not so, according to a recent examination of recommendations from House committees for spending on programs under their jurisdiction. With few exceptions, the committees, which are chaired by members who are responsible to the liberal House Democratic leadership, want far more spending than the President asked for.

The committee's final recommendations, which have to be filed with the Budget Committee, called for an increase of at least $38.1 billion over the President's proposals.

What the committees have recommended is exactly what the financial markets fear and the American people do not want. Many of the committees rejected, without debate, the President's proposals, and Republican-sponsored savings were defeated.

House liberals still advocate more taxes and more spending as part of a philosophy of government which has failed miserably. The committee recommendations prove it.

One example is the Committee on Public Works and Transportation, which recommended $3.2 billion in outlays more than the President requested. The Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries wants to spend $1.3 billion more than the administration requested.

The Committee on Government Operations wants $2 billion more to spend. The Post Office and Civil Service Committee wants $3.6 billion more to spend. The Science and Technology Committee wants to exceed the President's budget by $1.4 billion. The Energy and Commerce Committee wants $11.8 billion more.

The rampant spending prize seems to go to the Education and Labor Committee in a repeat of last year's performance. The committee proposed adding $17 billion in outlays to the President's request.

Another committee which really outdid itself in making recommendations was the Committee on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs, which proposed spending $7 billion more than the President requested on programs under its control.

Many of these committee recommendations are based on economic projections which may or may not become reality. They have chosen to seek the path of least resistance, a path which seems to lead to more spending and higher taxes.

What distresses me the most about these committee recommendations is that real efforts to REDUCE spending apparently got little consideration. And reductions in spending should be our ultimate goal.

Slidell Little Theatre slates 'Dolly' opening

Susan McKeon plays Dolly and Ken Preston will be Horace Vandergelder in Slidell Little Theatre's production of 'Hello, Dolly!' which is slated for a champagne opening Friday.

Based on 'The Matchmaker' by Thornton Wilder, the production is about Dolly Levi, basically a marriage arranger.

She tries to arrange a mating between a lovely maker of ladies' hats (Kit McLellan) and a rich widower (Preston) who runs a feed store in Yonkers.

Then, she decides to grab the guy for herself — and of course she does.

The highlight of the evening's fun is the scene in a garden restaurant when the waiters dance and sing a greeting to their old friend, Dolly.

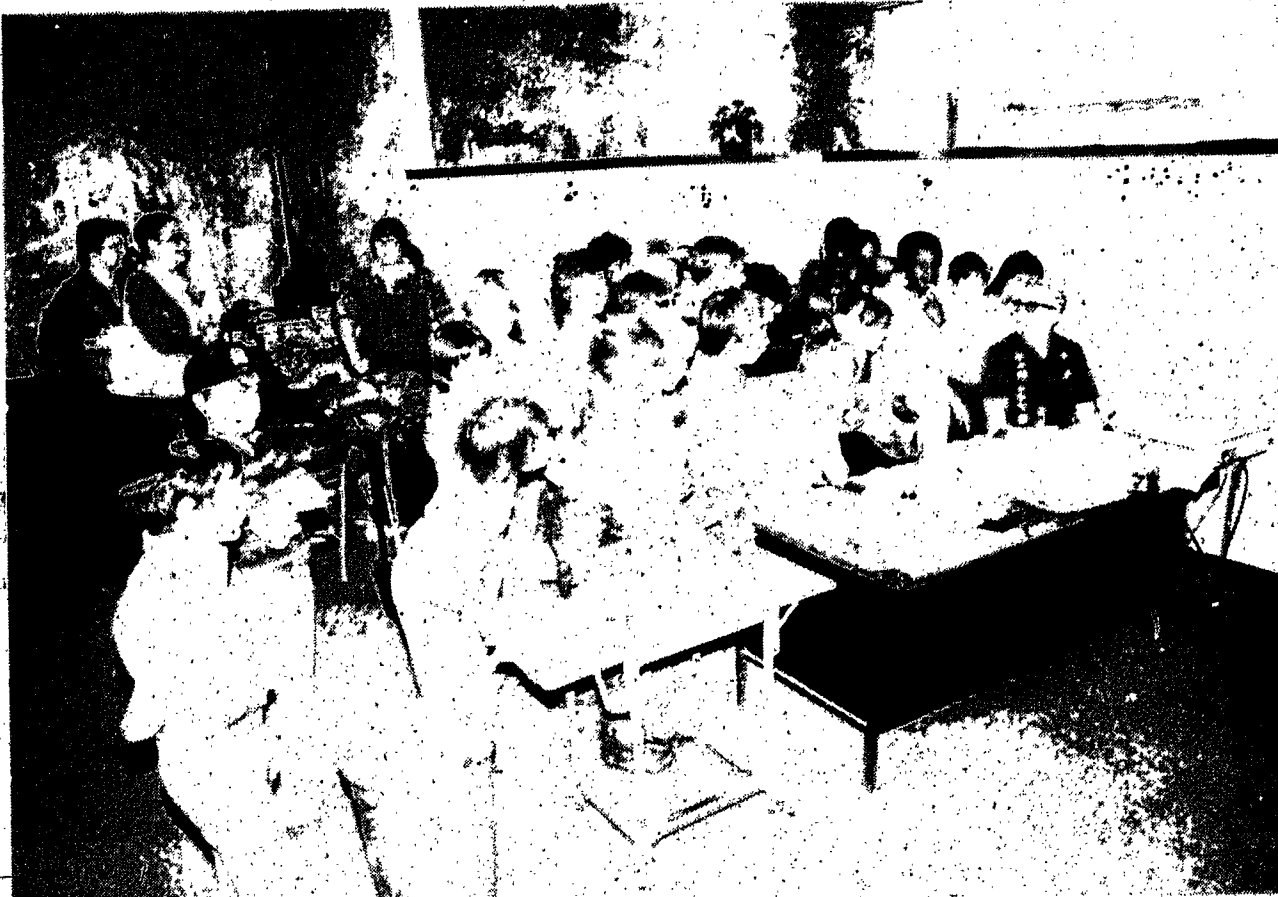

This one is a real show-stopper!

Directing this big, turn-of-the-century musical is John Perkins who most recently directed 'Mame,' also for SLT. The show will be presented the last four weekends in May, with the audience invited for complimentary champagne before the 8 p.m. curtain Friday.

Subsequent evening performances are scheduled for May 8, 14 and 15; 21 and 22; 28 and 29. Curtain is at 8 p.m.

Two matinee performances are scheduled: May 16 and 23 with 3 p.m. curtains.

SLT members may make reservations by calling 641-0324; non-members may buy tickets at the box office which opens one hour before curtain. Adult tickets are $5; student tickets, $3. For information, call 504-643-2572.

Jury Trials Threatened

By Richard F. Gerry
President
Association of Trial Lawyers of America

Once again the right to a jury trial in civil cases is being questioned by some unthinking persons. At a recent American Bar Association meeting, it was suggested that some civil jury trials be replaced by administrative processes or arbitration.

The suggestion is that divorce, child custody, adoptions, personal injury, landlord and tenant cases, and probate of estates are all prime candidates for some form of administrative or arbitration process. It should be pointed out that these cases are all "people" cases as distinguished from business cases.

Thus the courts would be removed from those cases which most deeply affect people's lives. The right to a civil jury trial in many of these cases is guaranteed by the Seventh Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

At a time when all trial lawyers are fighting to preserve the independence of the judiciary as the protector of the Constitution, it is frightening to hear some people propose systems which would weaken the Constitutional right of trial by jury.

It is a refusal by a cost-conscious Congress to supply sufficient judges to handle properly and expeditiously the growing caseloads which are a fact of modern judicial life. It is tempting to solve the courtroom delay problem by refusing access to the judicial system to potential litigants by having them resolve their own disputes. But is this equal justice?

As an alternative, judges and lawyers should cooperate to streamline court procedures. Such problems as runaway discovery which result in paper wars must be met forcefully and curbed. Arbitrary refusals to settle and frivolous appeals must also be discouraged.

The trial bar stands ready to cooperate with the judicial, executive and the legislative branches of government in expediting and simplifying litigation. The trial bar will aid in establishing innovative measures to make justice quicker, less expensive and more fair. But we will never be willing "palbearers" at the burial of the consumer's right to a civil trial by a jury of one's peers.

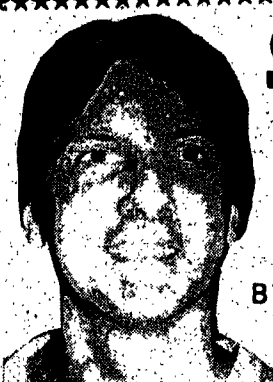

Surely no institution of such importance to our democratic system, as is the jury trial, should be sacrificed on the altar of judicial administration.

HBO DURING MAY

Some worthwhile offerings on HBO during May:

(1) 'Melvin and Howard' is a minor masterpiece on the same level as this year's 'Atlantic City' which was nominated for best picture. It relates the story of Melvin Dumar who happens upon a grizzly, beaten and battered old man who tells Melvin that he is Howard Hughes.

Paul Le Mat plays Melvin while veteran actor Jason Robards gives an effective, if not abbreviated performance as Howard. The interaction between these two as they cruise the highway in southern Utah is really something to see.

But the real star of this down-to-earth comedy-drama is Mary Steenburgen who plays Melvin's wife.

Since Jack Nicholson discovered her and cast her in his disappointing 'Goin' South,' Steenburgen has given strong performances in 'Time After Time' and her latest, 'Ragtime.'

In 'Melvin and Howard' she is absolutely captivating and the movie industry recognized this and awarded her the best supporting actress Oscar last year.

'Melvin and Howard' is a fine story and film. The honesty is sincere and can be felt by all who admire this classy piece of modern movie-making.

(2) 'Excalibur'—John Boorman, whose best effort was the classic 'Deliverance' (1972), almost equals himself with 'Excalibur,' a fantasy-filled romp through the Camelot era.

It is an epic film filled with exquisitely choreographed battle sequences complete with armor and huge swords and battle axes. And although panned by most critics, 'Excalibur' stands apart because of its feel for romanticism and the richness of its imagery. The film bogs down in certain areas and there are a couple of technical flaws, but for the most part 'Excalibur' is a joy to watch and a dream to dream.

(3) 'The Four Seasons.' Alan Alda wrote, directed and stars in this comedy-drama about three couples who share four vacations a year together.

'The Four Seasons' resembles a better than average made-for-television movie. In addition, it preaches like crazy. But for true Alda fans who have endured the past couple years of MASH, this technicality should be easily overlooked.

In all fairness, Alda keeps the dialogue snappy and his camera moves well throughout the picture. The major problem with 'The Four Seasons' is the cop-out ending that Alda leaves us with. (But then again I don't think I could've taken another season.)

The performances are good with Sandy Dennis giving the best of the litter.

(4) 'Network'—The list of credits for 'Network' reads like an obituary column. Gone are Peter Finch (who won the best actor award posthumously), William Holden and Paddy Chayefsky, who wrote this terrifically funny satire on network television.

Faye Dunaway, who also won the Oscar for best actress, plays a hard-driving network executive who'll do anything to push her ratings higher. Even if it means destroying other people's lives.

Beatrice Straight plays Holden's wife and she too won an Oscar for best supporting actress.

But the best performance is given in an eight minute sermon served up by Ned Beatty in his 'The Way the World Works' speech given to an unbalanced Howard Beale (Finch). Beatty reverberates the walls in a huge dining hall with this thunderously explosive piece. Really great stuff!

Sidney Lumet Shows why he is one of the front-line directors working in cinema today with his careful handling of an all-star cast. 'Network' is a classic filled with great performances.

As for the rest of the films on HBO...you're on your own. Good luck.

PALPITATING POOCH—Hancock County volunteer fire fighters give special attention to a poodle suffering from smoke inhalation after being trapped recently inside a burning trailer located north of US-90 behind Asher's Store in Waveland. East Hancock Volunteer fire fighter Richard Trudell, left, who is also a member of the Waveland Fire Department, discovered the dog under a bed in the smoke filled trailer and carried him to safety. Pete Skarkino, trailer owner, was not at home when his kitchen caught on fire as a result of a stove burner being left on. Other fire fighters assisting the dog are, Bernadette Mooneyan, center, and Dan Burns, both of the Bay Side Volunteer Fire Department. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

FULLY RECOVERED—Jim Crawford, a fire fighter with the BaySide Volunteer fire department, holds a fully revived poodle which suffered smoke inhalation earlier in the day when it became trapped inside a burning trailer. After being rescued, the dog lay on its back for some four hours. This occurred recently in a trailer located north of US-90 behind Asher's Grocery Store. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

CAUSE OF THE FIRE—BaySide Volunteer fire fighter Jim Crawford tips a pot left on a stove burner inside a trailer located north of US-90 behind Asher's Grocery Store. The pot caught on fire and ignited cabinets above the stove. Heavy damage was reported to the trailer owned by Pete Skarkino. Skarkino was not at home when the fire started. A neighbor spotted smoke and contained the blaze with a garden hose. East Hancock and BaySide Volunteer Fire Departments also responded. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Heavy telephone traffic expected on Mother's Day

A phone call to "Mom" on Mother's Day has long been an American tradition, and, according to South Central Bell, the volume of long distance calls placed on Mother's Day is second only to Christmas among the year's special telephoning days.

Don Roberts, district manager, suggests several tips for getting calls through faster and easier this Sunday. "On Mother's Day, calling volume is lightest from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. here in Mississippi," Roberts said. "So call in the early afternoon or evening. Also, it's more economical to call before 5 p.m. on Sundays."

Roberts said "One-Plus" calls—those dialed direct by the customer without operator assistance—will also save the caller time and money.

Long distance calling on a typical day is heaviest between metropolitan areas, but the pattern of calling shifts on Mother's Day when people call from their homes in the suburbs, small towns and rural areas. Another difference is that Mother's Day conversations are usually longer than those on an average business day.

"We're going to do everything we can to assure that all Mother's Day calls are completed as quickly and efficiently as possible," Roberts said.

Supervisors to question residents living near 500,000 volt powerline

By BRENT MACEY

Two members of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday agreed to travel to other counties in Mississippi this week to interview citizens living near a 500,000 volt powerline.

The supervisors, Roger Dale Ladner of Beat Three and Dolph Kellar of Beat Two, agreed to relate their findings to Hancock residents wary that a similar line proposed for construction through this county may be hazardous.

The board in the past has gone on record opposing Mississippi Power Company's plans to build a 500,000 volt line through this county.

The line would connect the Daniel Electric Generating Plant in Pascagoula with Gulf States Utilities in Beaumont, Texas at a point near Baton Rouge.

Mississippi Power has agreed to sell coal generated electricity to the Texas firm for the next decade.

At the Monday meeting, several northern Hancock residents who may be affected by construction of the line requested the supervisors take other action besides going on record against the line.

Hancock resident Mrs. Johnnie

Roche told the supervisors that the line would cross 40 acres of her property diagonally and would pass some 240 feet from her house.

She stated she feared the line may be 'detrimental' to herself and her visiting grandchildren. The line would also devalue her property, she said.

She noted the power company has reported that the counties of Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Pearl River will each benefit from an estimated $1 million in tax revenues from construction of the line.

"It doesn't seem like $250,000 will in any way make up for property devaluation we will have to suffer up there," she added.

Roche also reported that a power company in New York state constructed a similar line to the one proposed in Hancock. People in that area reported cases of nausea, headaches, amnesia, and other illnesses, she said.

Later in the meeting she said Russia conducted tests on 'electrical smog'—a term applied to the force field surrounding the line—and reported symptoms of hypertension, nervous exhaustion, and blood disorders.

She claimed that the Soviets beamed electrical waves into the United States Embassy in Moscow several years ago and that two U.S. ambassadors later died of cancer.

She encouraged the supervisors to support efforts of a group of southern Mississippians who want to block construction of the line.

If the line can not be blocked then the group advocates forcing the power company to construct the line underground so that alleged dangers will be reduced or eliminated.

Power company officials have stated that project would be too expensive. They also deny that the powerline is hazardous.

The group opposed to the line's construction—South Mississippians for Orderly Development—will be represented at a Public Service Commission hearing May 11.

Following the hearing the PSC will determine if Mississippi Power should be granted a permit of convenience and necessity—a permit allowing construction to begin.

Kellar said he would not attend the hearing due to a supervisors meeting scheduled for that day. Ladner was uncertain if he would attend.

However, E. Michael Necaize, Chancery Court clerk, stated he would be going to the hearing.

Another Hancock resident, Jo in Ladner, informed the board Monday that the line would pass 120 feet from his house.

He questioned why the line could not be constructed through paper company property away from populated area.

Larry Wayne Peterson of Hancock requested the supervisors contact other county supervisors who represent citizens living under the lines.

"If the board could gather some information and also go on record up there (in Jackson) then it might help," Peterson said.

"If you find that everything is fine and dandy then we need to know that," he added.

Hancock County
Forester

Richard C. (Dick) Allen, State Forester of Mississippi, has announced his official return to retirement effective July 1.

The Forestry Commission governing board is currently interviewing applicants to fill the vacancy.

Allen was appointed State Forester in April, 1980, by Governor William Winter, serving in his capacity as Chairman of the Commission. Allen had retired several years earlier from a top level management position with the Weyerhaeuser Company.

In announcing his intention to leave the Forestry Commission, Allen praised the Agency's employees for the "great progress and momentum for forestry they have helped to develop in the past two years."

Allen also expressed "deepest gratitude" to Governor Winter, the State Legislature and other conservation agencies and interests who gave the Forestry Commission such outstanding support during his two year tenure as State Forester.

"The Commission is administratively sound and quite ready to continue on with the big and vital job ahead in forestry under new leadership," said Allen. "I'm confident that the new State Forester will receive the same dedication and effort from the people of this fine agency that I enjoyed," he said.

Officials eyeing suspect

Someone trying to kill BaySide resident's dog

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Someone is trying to kill a BaySide Park resident's dog for no apparent reason.

Mildred Carroll of South Hancock Street recently found her Doberman puppy sniffing a hotdog chunk on her front yard lawn.

Upon further inspection she found her puppy had almost eaten a deadly tidbit—the hotdog contained chunks of broken glass.

The perpetrator had deviously hidden the glass inside the chunk of meat.

"It wasn't time to feed the dog and I noticed he appeared to be eating something," Carroll stated.

The woman immediately called a veterinarian who advised her as a precautionary measure to watch the dog closely to make sure it was not passing blood.

Carroll can't imagine why someone would try to kill her beloved pet.

Her well-fenced yard confines the dog to that area and even with the front gate open, the puppy is trained not to leave the yard. She adds that no one has ever complained about her dog either.

Carroll is a friendly middle-aged woman who baby-sits her two-year-old granddaughter daily at her modest small home. She is also raising four tiny baby possums by bottle-feeding the animals.

Her son found the possums clinging to their dead mother on a road, apparently killed by an automobile.

She is a kind woman who fondly recalls successfully raising several doves on her front porch one year ago.

Carroll also enjoys bird watching and spreads feed in the yard to attract her feathered friends.

The woman was particularly fascinated by a flock of indigo buntings which recently visited her yard.

District One Justice Court Judge Lee Klein attests to the woman's good character and describes her as one of the nicest people he knows.

She has lived at her BaySide residence for the last 18 years.

Klein confirms Carroll contacted him about the incident and reports the Hancock County Sheriff's Department has a prime suspect.

He also notes someone poured liquid fertilizer on the woman's car and bent in the roof of the automobile.

Carroll says someone frequently throws items such as rocks, shells and wood in her neatly manicured yard.

The judge is baffled as to why someone would bother such a good-hearted and humble person.

"We're watching him," Klein says regarding the suspected perpetrator of the malicious criminal acts.

Carroll adds, "There are a lot of things happening that should not be happening."

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society and the American Humane Association are observing the 68th annual 'Be Kind to Animals Week' this week. May is also 'Be Kind to Animals Month.'

"This is the oldest celebrated week in the U.S.," a humane society spokesman reports.

Local officials and Carroll hope the perpetrator of these inhumane acts will have a change of heart in the spirit of the week and month.

OLD LINE ALWAYS FAILS

Think back to last summer's fishing. Remember how hot it was on the water? By mid-day you probably quit and sought a cool spot to relax. Do you recall what you did with your rods and reels then? Perhaps you put them away fully rigged in the side compartment of your boat, or maybe in the trunk of your car.

While you were cooling off those rods were heating up, often to temperatures greater than 200 degrees. That, say Mercury Outboards' fishing experts, is reason enough to change fishing lines before going out this season. Heat destroys the best monofilament line.

There are other causes of line damage. Abrasion is the most common. Worn rod guides, a worn pick-up ball on a spinning reel, even having too little line on a spool will cause line damage. A microscopic nick, gouge or scrape will weaken monofilament line by 50% or more. If you detect any of these ailments to your tackle, replace the worn part and the line.

Hard use will weaken monofilament line. If you do a lot of fishing, the continual casting, stretching, wetting and drying of the line will eventually wear out its resilience. A stiff line is more difficult to cast, tends to stay coiled, and is easier to nick.

Trotting is especially hard on monofilament line. The pressure caused by dragging a lure behind the boat stretches the line. This will cause a slight amount of molecule realignment in the line and it then becomes brittle and is easier to break.

Don't gamble on an old line. It always fails on a lunker fish.

McNair, Underwood take mixed doubles in state

By BRENT MACEY

The Coast High School's mixed doubles tennis team of seniors Doug Underwood and Leslie McNair succeeded in winning the State Class B District VIII Mixed Doubles Tournament in Jackson this past week.

The entire Coast Episcopal High Team took second place in the state competition; totalling 11 points and being nudged from first place by St. Joseph High School of Greenville which scored 12 points to become Class B champions.

Underwood and McNair took the finals mixed doubles competition handily in two straight sets 6-1 and 6-3.

Both athletes noted their toughest competition came in the quarter final round of the State Championships against St. Joseph.

The St. Joseph team forced the Coast Episcopal duo to go three sets before the losing 5-7, 6-4 and 4-6.

The Class B District VIII mixed doubles champions noted they both played an aggressive game throughout the tournament; coming to the net often to force either a mistake or winning shot from their opponents.

This is the fifth state championship for Coast Episcopal since 1973 when Kim Bergerud and Bill Clinkscales won in boys doubles.

In 1974, Katherine Johnson and Perry Clinkscales won in mixed doubles. In 1977 the Vegas sisters, Holly and Ginny, became girls doubles champions, and last year Brooke Shapter and Elizabeth Haynie won the girls doubles title.

This year Christ Episcopal, the smallest school in the state to field a tennis team, won all five of its first round matches and four of its quarter-final matches.

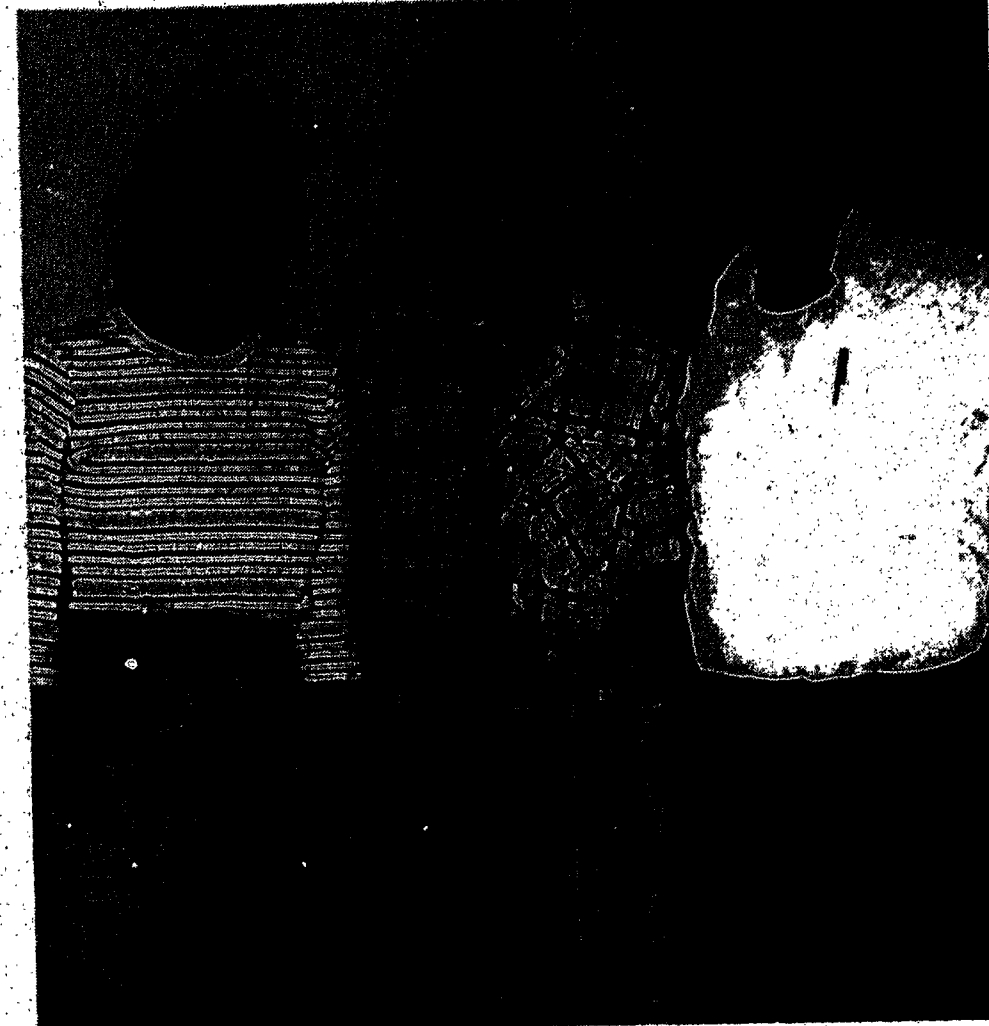

In girls singles, Brooke

Shapter of Coast Episcopal went to the semi-finals before being defeated.

Charlotte Golmon and Lawrence Short were defeated in the quarter finals of the girls doubles.

And Guy Shapter, boy's singles player, and David Underwood and Steve Shelton also went to the semi-finals before suffering defeat.

OVER EASY—St. Stanislaus high jumper Marco St. John clears six feet easily at St. Stanislaus Stadium recently while practicing for the South State Track Meet conducted in Moss Point last Saturday. St. John placed third in South State competition with a jump of six feet. Coach Vernon Powell noted St. John won the District VIII Class A meet with a leap of six feet six inches. But wet rainy weather made the approach lane slippery at South State and created problems for all competing high jumpers. Powell will be traveling to the State Track Meet this Saturday in Jackson where he hopes to do well in what may prove to be stiff competition. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Beach, all of Gulfport; Scott Reising and Kay Cody, both of Ocean Springs; and Craig Quigley of Mobile.

Head cheerleader Kelly Lemon of Ocean Springs was recognized by Diane Sekul, Squad sponsor. Lemon in turn presented a plaque to the college in memory of Whitney Johnson, Perkinston Campus student and cheerleader who died this year in an automobile accident. Baseball and track standouts will be announced at the end of the season. The baseball team was to begin the defense of its South Division title Wednesday at Perkinston. The track team visits Hinds on Thursday for the state meet.

Presiding at the banquet was GJC President J.J. Hayden. Other administrators on the program included Perkinston Executive Dean Clyde Strickland, and Ken Farris, athletic director and baseball coach.

David Bennett, also fighting for Gulfport, lost the semi-main event of the evening to Jeff Kennedy of Biloxi. David fought three tough rounds but lost by a split decision.

Wayne Karl of Waveland, fighting for Gulfport, defeated Bubba Lemoine of Waggaman La. The two boxers will meet again next week in Gulf States in the 75 pound intermediate class.

Chuck Karl lost to Clint (the mule) Webster of Biloxi in the 65 pound division.

keeping you in touch

By Don Roberts
District Manager

Telephone lines will be buzzing May 9 as people all across the country reach out with a phone call to wish Mom a happy Mother's Day.

Mother's Day has become the busiest day of the year for long distance telephone calls. As a result, you may find the phone circuits tied up when you try to call. If that happens, wait a few minutes and try again.

The best way to avoid busy phone circuits is to call early. Long distance rates are low all weekend - from 11 p.m. Friday until 5 p.m. Sunday. And remember, you always save when you dial your calls direct, the One-Plus way.

Many Mississippians are making plans for summer trips and vacations.

You can save vacation money by using the telephone as a traveling tool. Call ahead for reservations. Many hotels list toll-free telephone numbers for lodging information and reservations in the Yellow Pages.

You can also call Chambers of Commerce for information about the communities you plan to visit. Advance knowledge of tours and special events will help you organize your trip so that you don't waste precious vacation time.

You don't have to pay for a wrong number when you dial a long distance call. Just hang up, dial the operator and explain what happened. You'll get credit for the call.

*One-Plus means direct, toll-free, Zero-Plus means toll-free, operator-assisted calls. Toll-free calls are available from a hotel or motel, or calls to Atlantic City.

Blake enumerates risks of nasty tobacco habits

By Ed Blake

Some of the good folks down at Raleigh may take a dim view of the revelation of the facts of this article—especially about the time they hold their annual tobacco spittin' contest—but what the heck, that stuff ain't no good for you, according to the health folks!

Besides, this writer is in the mood for a good provocative item. Things have been too peaceable lately. And if little ol' Barbara Schilde, health and safety specialist for the LSU Cooperative Extension Service, can fire off one big salvo against the spittoon, so can this strapping six foot four, 200 pound pluser.

You see, here's what it's all about. All these athletes and folk heroes are going on television to brag about smokeless tobacco. Now they act so smug and happy when they say those things until a lot of folks really forget they are fee-acting and buy their words—hook, line and sinker.

As a result of that and the campaign against smoking tobacco a lot of kids in these Southern United States are taking up a habit that they don't know is harmful to their mouths and bodies.

Words of warning have been published in the prestigious New England Journal of Medicine quoting Dr. Arden Christen of the School of Aerospace Medicine of Brooks Air Force Base in San Antonio, whose survey of Texas elementary, high school and college athletes revealed widespread use of smokeless tobacco products.

One-third of those surveyed said that they chewed, or dipped, or both.

Next brave soul down the aisle of expose on the subject is the little lady with the LSU Cooperative Extension Service who has taken the message to the folks of Louisiana that studies by Dr. Christen and others reveal that a dipper's or chewer's mouth may show signs of "leukoplakia," or become wrinkled, thickened, white leathery areas of oral tissue associated with pre-cancerous conditions. The LSU health specialist notes that about six percent of persons with leukoplakia develop oral cancer.

Not only does tobacco cause tissue irritation, but chewers and dippers tend to have greater tooth wear than non-users, the research shows. Gums tend to recede in areas where tobacco is held between the lower lip and gum.

Bare tooth roots exposed by receded gums become more susceptible to decay and are more sensitive to heat, cold, certain foods and chemicals. Also, tobacco that has been sweetened may increase tooth decay.

Furthermore, tobacco juices contain chemicals which may delay wound healing, especially tooth extractions or oral surgery.

And try this little debilitating fact for size. Tobacco products decrease the user's ability to taste and smell bitter, salty and sweet foods which seem to cover the gamut of the menu.

So dippers and chewers may use more salt on their food and additional sugar may also be required. Excessive salt contributes to abnormal blood pressure and kidney disease, the health folks say.

But the habit forming nature of tobacco juices and smoke is the real hassle. Nicotine enters the human body through either juice or smoke and is readily absorbed through the lining of the mouth with a direct effect on the body's nervous system.

As a habit former, nicotine first causes its users to become stimulated and excited, but they may later feel depressed or experience a let down. So, in order to keep a lifted sensation, those with the habit need a booster every 20 to 30 minutes.

Nicotine can also affect the heart and circulatory system.

As it enters the bloodstream, arteries constrict or become smaller, and blood platelets clot and the heartbeat increases. As a result blood pressure tends to rise, increasing the risk of strokes and heart attacks.

All that tough man stuff seems to get dimmer by the moment.

Food Preservant May Aid Herpes Victims

We hear a lot more about Herpes Simplex today even though the virus has plagued man and frustrated medical science for 2,000 years. Current estimates place the number of people suffering from genital Herpes at 10-20 million. As many as 30 million have contracted labial Herpes which effects the lips, mouth and face.

While everyone can agree that it has reached epidemic proportions, not much is being done to promote a discovery that could be used to combat this embarrassing disease.

It seems a food preservative called BHT (Butylated Hydroxytoluene), has been found to be a potent inactivator of lipid-containing mammalian and bacterial viruses like Herpes.

Yet since these findings, which were published in "SCIENCE" in September of 1977, nothing more has been said or done to alert the public of the existence and effects of this antioxidant.

Specifically, BH-4, an n-alkyl derivative of BHT, has been determined to be "highly effective" in preventing and/or shortening the duration of Herpes Type 1 and Type 2 viruses (HSV).

However, there is one product on the market that does contain sufficient amounts of BHT to combat Herpes. It is being sold and promoted as a food preservative only, but if 3/4 of a tablespoon are taken twice daily it will achieve the same results announced by the "SCIENCE" journal.

Gulfport Rodeo offers money to record breakers

Fishermen who participate in the 34th annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo, scheduled from the Gulfport small craft harbor July 1-4, will be seeking monetary reward in addition to prizes and awards.

For the past few years, the rodeo has presented $500 government bonds to fishermen breaking established records in any of 25 prize-winning categories, and $500 cash to the angler shattering the existing shark record (873 pounds).

Last year, only two records were established, both in salt water categories. D.L. Siegel of Gulfport caught a record 62-pound dolphin, and Chris Moran of Ocean Springs landed a record 74-pound white marlin.

Jack L. Dedeaux, rodeo president, said he anticipates a record-breaking registration for the 1982 event.

Dedeaux noted that registration is free, but all fishermen must be registered prior to competing for prizes.

Applications being accepted for Louisiana shrimping tags

The Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries will receive applications for shrimp licenses through May 15.

Originally, January 1-31 was the license application period. Anyone who has not received or applied for a Louisiana Shrimp license, may do so by visiting the offices of the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries at 400 Royal Street in New Orleans between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Boat documentation or registration papers must be presented in order to receive a license. For information, call 504-568-5688.

The National Association of Basketball Coaches has chosen Don Monson of the University of Idaho as its Division I winner of the 1982 Kodak Coach of the Year award. Bobby Dye of California State College, Bakersfield and Mac Petty of Wabash College were winners of the Division II and Division III awards.

All three had sensational years. Idaho was 27-3 and made it to the regionals of the NCAA Basketball championship for the first time in its history. Cal. State, Bakersfield was 25-6 and made it to the final four of the Division II National Championship. Wabash finished 24-4 with a big 83-62 victory over Potsdam College for the Division III national championship.

The award, an outgrowth of the Kodak Company's commitment to recognizing excellence in amateur athletics, is particularly coveted by coaches because the winner is picked by his peers.

Monson seems very deserving of the honor. In just four short years, he has taken a team from perennial loser's status to a yearly contender for the Big Sky Conference championship.

Monson's formula for success is simple. It's a good measure of hard work blended with the talents of everyone on his team.

As he explains it, "I think you've got to push your players to get their optimum effort. That's what I'm trying to do."
